NERVE COACH

To Whom It May Concern,

The ReBuilder is a medical device intended for pain relief treatment of the patient and it poses no risk to flight. Details and pictures (for reference) can be found on our website www.thenervecoach.com Its FDA registrations are K874085 and K882980.

This device is manufactured in the United States of America under FDA guidelines and registered with the FDA as both a TENS (transcutaneous electronic nerve stimulator) and EMS (electronic muscle stimulator) unit.

We advise our patients to travel with this device in their carry-on luggage, rather than checked baggage. This is in case questions come up they are able to be addressed efficiently and hopefully prevent any delay in their travel.

The owner of this device uses it on a daily basis for relief of chronic intractable pain, and it is expensive to replace. It would be prudent to investigate thoroughly before unnecessarily confiscating the device.

Feel free to call our offices at 833-678-5227 during regular business hours if you have any questions or concerns.
